

Antisemitism

The film Constantine's Sword (2007) discussed the ways in which the Catholic Church played a part in the holocaust, both through inaction and insidious action. One of his most intriguing points to me was his argument that the Catholic Church's insistence on labeling the Jews "christ killers" was used as justification for violence against the Jewish people for hundreds of years.